Brewster Quail Hunting

A few of us got together and made a trip to Brewster for another bird hunting trip the weekend before Thanksgiving. The birds were plentiful with all having plenty to shoot at. We hunted about 3 different areas there, which all held birds.

Rolf and Fred arrived early enough Friday to get some afternoon hunting in. Greg and I arrived Friday evening and went out Saturday with the two masters, trying to learn what we could from them. For me the day's hunt was a good training ground for my dog, as she retrieved a couple birds for me and is starting to get the idea of what she is supposed to do. She probably wishes that her master could just hit the broad side of a barn when he shot, so she could chase down a few more birds.

We stayed at the RV Park in Brewster and paid $11.00 a night for electric only hook-up as the water lines have been drain for the winter. The park is closed, but if you call Brewster city hall in advance and ask, you should be able to get the same deal.

The weather was good until Sunday morning when it started raining and we headed home. Here are a few pictures from the past Brewster Hunting trips. †
